Sgts,

In order to alleviate the burdens placed on some of your personnel on last minute requests to work in an undercover capacity at Occupy Austin and to make better use of our resources, six of our detectives/officers will be assigned to primarily work Occupy Austin for the next 30 days. Three of our personnel will be the primary officers to assist in an undercover capacity. The other three officers will be used more sparingly to fill in for the three primary officers. We would like two officers/detectives to work as a team while in an undercover capacity. Their hours will primarily be from 3p-11p, but this is flexible. If the officer/detective is not scheduled to work Occupy Austin that day then they could work their regular hours. If they are needed to help out their individual units on an operation, then they will be allowed to do that and the extra hours they work will be OT. Also, if they work Occupy Austin on weekends they will be compensated OT pay.

The following detectives and officer have been designated as the primary undercover officers to work Occupy Austin:

Deek Moore

Shannon Dowell

Rick Reza

These are the secondary u/c's

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Their schedules will be flexible and we will let the UC personnel decide which teams go out and what date. If your personnel have scheduled time off in the next 30 days let me know so that we can figure out what days need coverage in advance. I know you will have questions so please let me know so that I can clarify anything that is not clear...which could be a lot. Let's plan on kicking this off next week on Tuesday, since some are off today.

I appreciate the assistance we have received to this date from our personnel. ARIC has been impressed with the level of intel our UC's have been able to gather. The intel is an extremely important part of this operation and is necessary so that the city of Austin remains relatively calm.

I also understand the constraints this is putting on your units' missions but we must all do our part. Thank you once again.

One last thing, for those officers that work in an undercover capacity at Occupy Austin they will be exempt from Home for the Holidays.

Thank you,

If you forward up to about 4:40 seconds, you will see HPD and Houston Fire use a good tactics with a Decon tent. They place the tent over the arrestees to separate from view of the crowd and then bring them out one by one. As the video plays through, you see how the tent becomes useful.

Good morning Sir.

I know LCDR Leonard when planning for this event, would have liked to use the Port of Houston's, Sam Houston Boat to be able to Transport everyone at one time but there has been a lot of political issues involving that boat and besides Joe wanted to show off his resources. I think if he could, he would have had the Coast Guard Helicopter hovering overhead of us.

Thank you for the Intel, we are expecting a little event down here on Monday, December 12, 2011. I'm not sure how much information has been sent your way, but thought I'd sent you the last Intel we received.

Occupiers in Texas Plan to Shut Down the Port of Houston!

Submitted by admin on Tue, 12/06/2011 - 14:08
<http://westcoastportshutdown.org/content/occupiers-texas-plan-shut-down-port-houston>

Approved GA proposal from Occupy Dallas:

In solidarity with Occupy Oakland, Occupy San Diego, Occupy LA, Occupy Portland, Occupy Tacoma, Occupy Seattle and other movements along the west coast of the United States that will shut down ports in their cities on December 12, the General Assembly of Dallas hereby declares:

On December 12, 2011, Occupy Dallas will assemble in Houston, TX.

The following message is from Occupy Oakland:

"On December 12, the occupy movements in different cities will stage mass mobilizations to march on the ports, create community pickets, and effectively shutdown the hubs of commerce, in the same fashion that Occupy Oakland shut down the Port of Oakland on November 2nd, the day of our general strike. The Oakland Port Shutdown was a historic and effective action, and the memory of that night on the port lives in the hearts of people across Oakland and around the country."

In Houston, we will mobilize and stage a mass march by integrating Occupy Houston, Occupy Austin, Occupy San Marco, Occupy San Antonio, Occupy Now and Occupy Texas.

We have made attempts at local demonstrations in an effort to spread awareness of the economic injustices affecting the 99%. These peaceful assemblies have been organized with the aim of petitioning our government for a redress of our grievances. On a national level, the response to our protest has often included excessive force and unnecessary violence perpetrated by police departments, with thousands of citizens unlawfully arrested.

Occupy Dallas would like to urge other movements in Texas and the surrounding states that wish to participate in the Occupy the Gulf Coast action to join with Occupy Houston before December 12.

We ask that you bring this request before your General Assembly immediately.

In Solidarity and Struggle,
Occupy Dallas

Good evening Robert,

We have been monitoring the OA general assembly and it appears that there may be a group that is coming to support the Occupy Houston effort plans to block the port action. They are also planning to bring the material to utilize dragon sleeves as a means to delay arrest efforts. I will send you the bulletin we produced as soon as I get back to my office computer.

SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

Requestor Name/Agency	Austin Police Department
Assigned To	C. DeGraffenreid #4664
Date/Time of Report	Update 12/08/2011 @ XX:00

(New info is highlighted)

(U) SYNOPSIS

- As part of the nationwide movement known as "Occupy Wall Street", an organized protest is scheduled to begin October 6, 2011 at 10:00am in Austin and continue indefinitely. The movement has issued a statement of solidarity with the protestors in New York; "We stand in solidarity with our brothers and sisters who Occupy Wall Street and occupy around the world. We are dedicated to non-violently reclaiming control of our governments from the financial interests that have corrupted them. We demand that our public servants recognize that the people are the supreme authority." The approved mission statement for the event states: "Our mission is to assert our rightful place within the political process and take the reins of power away from profit-driven interests."
- The organizers of the local event are calling for a peaceful, non-violent protest but there have been acts of civil disobedience and isolated criminal conduct associated with the nation-wide event.

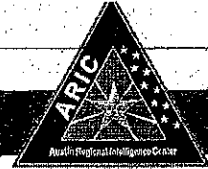

(U-LES) Key Findings

Occupy Austin Priority Intelligence Requirements:

1. List of potential demonstration sites

- a. The primary gathering site is the plaza at Austin City Hall. History of this event (including information from cities) has shown that alternatives to the primary protest location of City Hall will include financial centers in the downtown, the State Capital Grounds and the 6th Street entertainment district.
- b. March for Jobs & Unemployment-March from City Hall to Chase Towers and the Texas State Capitol
- c. AISD East Austin protest march-Allan Elementary (4900 Gonzales) to Springdale and North on Springdale to Airport
- d. International Human Rights Day-March-Rally at Texas State Capitol followed by a march down South Congress Ave.
- e. Occupy the Port-Port of Houston
- f. Occupy Eastside March to AISD Board Meeting-Assemble at Eastside Memorial High School 1012 Arthur Stiles Road, march to Bolm Road and Shady Lane and then board a Cap Metro bus to 6th and Lamar and march to 1111 W 6th.¹

SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

2. Protest times and days of week

- a. Nightly protests from City Hall to the entertainment district have stopped.
- b. March for Jobs & Unemployment-December 8 6-7pm. March will assemble at City Hall and march to Chase Towers (6th & Lavaca) and end at the Capitol
- c. AISD protest march-December 10 11am, march from Allan Elementary to Gonzalez and Springdale then North on Springdale to a large parking lot near Springdale and Airport.
- d. International Human Rights Day March-December 10 assemble at State Capitol at 2pm with a march down South Congress at 3pm
- e. Port of Houston-Occupy the Port-December 12, members from "Occupations" across Texas will assemble at the Port of Houston with the goal of shutting down port operations²
- f. Occupy Eastside March to AISD Board Meeting-December 12 4:30pm and move to 1111 W 6th Street for the AISD board meeting.

3. Potential demonstrator strength per site

- a. Current overall estimates for the event vary from early morning lows of around 20 people to highs during the evening of up to a couple of hundred. The largest march on October 15th rallied approximately 800-1000 people.
- b. Initial group discussions on/about October 6th, spoke of dividing into "platoon"-sized elements and moving to various secondary locations in the downtown area. Historically, this tactic has not materialized, but it should be considered as a potential tactic.
- c. The cold weather has caused a noticeable reduction in the numbers of 24/7 occupiers at City Hall, but it is not likely to have a significant impact on the turnout for scheduled events.

4. Demonstrated tactics and interaction with police in Austin and other cities

- a. Up to this point, the focus of the Occupy Austin movement has been on peaceful protest and they have made a point to encourage working with police. However, the online presence of the movement has often been highly anti-police and has focused on dealing with police response tactics such as wearing bandanas and goggles to protect against the use of pepper spray.
- b. On October 10th, 2011 the General Assembly of the Occupy Austin Protest discussed the subject of civil disobedience. Damaging property as a means of civil disobedience is being discussed as a tactic for "autonomous" individuals wanting to express themselves either inside or apart from the group. Violence against people was discouraged as a means of civil disobedience.³
- c. The Occupy Austin has recently trained approximately 40-50 members in direct action civil disobedience. On the November 5th march, protesters took over several lanes of traffic while enroute and returning from their bank protest site. Protesters were also encouraged by other members to sit down in an intersection in an effort to disrupt traffic flow. This suggestion was rejected but it is the important to note its attempted use.

SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

- d. There is continuing theme of unrest growing inside the occupy group. There have been increased calls to increase both the quantity and quality of civil disobedience and direct action as a protest tactic. A new splinter group dubbed "Guerilla Theater" has started a think tank for "creative, non-violent action."
- e. Officer Safety Bulletins from other Occupy sites across the city have pointed out the use or potential use of devices to defeat handcuffs and flex cuffs including pins and broken razorblades, a concealed handcuff key was recovered off a local protestor after he was arrested for chaining himself to a tree at City Hall. Another local activist was observed on-camera demonstrating how he could utilize a large industrial safety pin (with a spike approximately 6" in length) that he kept concealed at his waist as a weapon.
- f. Threats to members of Congress/Occupy Los Angeles- Joshua Eric Wilkes (DOB 02/13/1978 Hawaii DL #H01151747, 6'06", 190#, Bro hair, Grn eyes) is sought by Los Angeles FBI in regards to his making numerous threats to members of Congress. If detained contact FBI Special Agent Roberto Basteris 626-890-5022.

- g. On 12/8/11, a Boston judge declined to uphold an injunction allowing the Occupy Boston group to remain in Dewey Square. Boston Mayor Tom Menino has given the Occupy movement until Midnight on December 8th to vacate. Menino has not spelled out any specific enforcement action that will be taken if the protesters do not vacate. If the protesters are forcibly removed by Boston Police, this could further galvanize Occupiers in the Austin area.

5. Any local open source discussions or otherwise detected

- a. Occupy Austin continues to hold General Assembly (planning) meetings every day since Sept 29th. Highest turnout for the planning meetings has been around 500 people and they usually average less than 100 people. General Assembly meetings are held at 19:00hrs. The locations have varied with the latest location being the old fire training tower on E. Cesar Chavez.
- b. The primary organizational website is www.occupyaustin.org
- c. Media releases from both national and local outlets are considered to have medium levels of reliability. Law enforcement personnel should confirm these reports before acting on information received through these outlets.
- d. Information posted on social media sites should be considered as unreliable or of low reliability. Law Enforcement personnel should confirm these reports with the Austin Regional Intelligence Center before acting on information received through these outlets.

6. Assessment:

Based on open source research, the Austin Regional Intelligence Center assessment of this event suggests that the event could cause localized disruption in traffic if large numbers of people gather in small or confined areas. Protestors may continue to encourage/engage in civil disobedience to attract

SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

The level of civil disobedience usually consists of disorderly conduct, blocking of public thoroughfares, and refusal to leave after receiving a lawful order to disperse. Additionally, it is likely that additional groups with their own agenda may piggyback on the exposure of the Occupy Austin event. This has been seen in other cities that are experiencing Occupy protests.

These additional protestors may include person(s) who advocate violence as a means to express civil disobedience and use the presence of the crowd to hide or mask their activities. Social media postings continue an acknowledgment by event organizers that there maybe individuals who may take "autonomous" action.

The outlook for this operational period is expected to continue without major incidents, but due to the fluid nature of the events officers should maintain situational awareness at all times. In other cities there continues to be a very high anti-police sentiment, officers should be aware of the potential for anti-police direction actions be expressed through a group mentality. Occupy sites in California and New York are experiencing recent events where protestors are being arrested for continued acts of civil disobedience.

ARIC personnel continue to monitor social networking sites and news media outlets for indicators of planned or pending criminal activity. First responders should remain vigilant to the possibility of unexpected changes in the direction of protests.

SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

Requestor Name/Agency	Austin Police Department
Assigned To	C. DeGraffenreid #4664
Date/Time of Report	Update 12/08/2011 @ XX:00

(New info is highlighted)

(U) SYNOPSIS

- As part of the nationwide movement known as "Occupy Wall Street", an organized protest is scheduled to begin October 6, 2011 at 10:00am in Austin and continue indefinitely. The movement has issued a statement of solidarity with the protestors in New York; "We stand in solidarity with our brothers and sisters who Occupy Wall Street and occupy around the world. We are dedicated to non-violently reclaiming control of our governments from the financial interests that have corrupted them. We demand that our public servants recognize that the people are the supreme authority." The approved mission statement for the event states: "Our mission is to assert our rightful place within the political process and take the reins of power away from profit-driven interests."
- The organizers of the local event are calling for a peaceful, non-violent protest but there have been acts of civil disobedience and isolated criminal conduct associated with the nation-wide event.

(U-LES) Key Findings

Occupy Austin Priority Intelligence Requirements:

1. List of potential demonstration sites

- a. The primary gathering site is the plaza at Austin City Hall. History of this event (including information from cities) has shown that alternatives to the primary protest location of City Hall will include financial centers in the downtown, the State-Capital Grounds and the 6th Street entertainment district.
- b. March for Jobs & Unemployment-March from City Hall to Chase Towers and the Texas State Capitol
- c. AISD East Austin protest march-Allan Elementary (4900 Gonzales) to Springdale and North on Springdale to Airport
- d. International Human Rights Day March-Rally at Texas State Capitol followed by a march down South Congress Ave.
- e. Occupy the Port-Port of Houston
- f. Occupy Eastside March to AISD Board Meeting-Assemble at Eastside Memorial High School 1012 Arthur Stiles Road, march to Bolm Road and Shady Lane and then board a Cap Metro bus to 6th and Lamar and march to 1111 W 6th.¹

SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

2. Protest times and days of week

- a. Nightly protests from City Hall to the entertainment district have stopped.
- b. March for Jobs & Unemployment-December 8 6-7pm. March will assemble at City Hall and march to Chase Towers (6th & Lavaca) and end at the Capitol
- c. AISD protest march-December 10 11am, march from Allan Elementary to Gonzalez and Springdale then North on Springdale to a large parking lot near Springdale and Airport.
- d. International Human Rights Day March-December 10 assemble at State Capitol at 2pm with a march down South Congress at 3pm
- e. Port of Houston-Occupy the Port- December 12, members from "Occupations" across Texas will assemble at the Port of Houston with the goal of shutting down port operations²
- f. Occupy Eastside March to AISD Board Meeting-December 12 4:30pm and move to 1111 W 6th Street for the AISD board meeting.

3. Potential demonstrator strength per site

- a. Current overall estimates for the event vary from early morning lows of around 20 people to highs during the evening of up to a couple of hundred. The largest march on October 15th rallied approximately 800-1000 people.
- b. Initial group discussions on/about October 6th, spoke of dividing into "platoon"-sized elements and moving to various secondary locations in the downtown area. Historically, this tactic has not materialized, but it should be considered as a potential tactic.
- c. The cold weather has caused a noticeable reduction in the numbers of 24/7 occupiers at City Hall, but it is not likely to have a significant impact on the turnout for scheduled events.

4. Demonstrated tactics and interaction with police in Austin and other cities

- a. Up to this point, the focus of the Occupy Austin movement has been on peaceful protest and they have made a point to encourage working with police. However, the online presence of the movement has often been highly anti-police and has focused on dealing with police response tactics such as wearing bandanas and goggles to protect against the use of pepper spray.
- b. On October 10th, 2011 the General Assembly of the Occupy Austin Protest discussed the subject of civil disobedience. Damaging property as a means of civil disobedience is being discussed as a tactic for "autonomous" individuals wanting to express themselves either inside or apart from the group. Violence against people was discouraged as a means of civil disobedience.³
- c. The Occupy Austin has recently trained approximately 40-50 members in direct action civil disobedience. On the November 5th march, protesters took over several lanes of traffic while enroute and returning from their bank protest site. Protesters were also encouraged by other members to sit down in an intersection in an effort to disrupt traffic flow. This suggestion was rejected but it is the important to note its attempted use.

SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

- d. There is continuing theme of unrest growing inside the occupy group. There have been increased calls to increase both the quantity and quality of civil disobedience and direct action as a protest tactic. A new splinter group dubbed "Guerilla Theater" has started a think tank for "creative, non-violent action."
- e. Officer Safety Bulletins from other Occupy sites across the city have pointed out the use or potential use of devices to defeat handcuffs and flex cuffs including pins and broken razorblades, a concealed handcuff key was recovered off a local protestor after he was arrested for chaining himself to a tree at City Hall. Another local activist was observed on-camera demonstrating how he could utilize a large industrial safety pin (with a spike approximately 6" in length) that he kept concealed at his waist as a weapon.
- f. Threats to members of Congress/Occupy Los Angeles- Joshua Eric Wilkes (DOB 02/13/1978 Hawaii DL #H01151747; 6'06", 190#, Bro hair, Grn eyes) is sought by Los Angeles FBI in regards to his making numerous threats to members of Congress. If detained contact FBI Special Agent Roberto Basteris 626-890-5022.

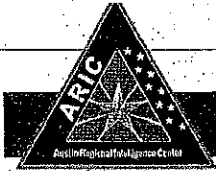

- g. On 12/8/11, a Boston judge declined to uphold an injunction allowing the Occupy Boston group to remain in Dewey Square. Boston Mayor Tom Menino has given the Occupy movement until Midnight on December 8th to vacate. Menino has not spelled out any specific enforcement action that will be taken if the protesters do not vacate. If the protesters are forcibly removed by Boston Police, this could further galvanize Occupiers in the Austin area.

5. Any local open source discussions or otherwise detected

- a. Occupy Austin continues to hold General Assembly (planning) meetings every day since Sept 29th. Highest turnout for the planning meetings has been around 500 people and they usually average less than 100 people. General Assembly meetings are held at 19:00hrs. The locations have varied with the latest location being the old fire training tower on E. Cesar Chavez.
- b. The primary organizational website is www.occupyaustin.org
- c. Media releases from both national and local outlets are considered to have medium levels of reliability. Law enforcement personnel should confirm these reports before acting on information received through these outlets.
- d. Information posted on social media sites should be considered as unreliable or of low reliability. Law Enforcement personnel should confirm these reports with the Austin Regional Intelligence Center before acting on information received through these outlets.

6. Assessment:

Based on open source research, the Austin Regional Intelligence Center assessment of this event suggests that the event could cause localized disruption in traffic if large numbers of people gather in small or confined areas. Protestors may continue to encourage/engage in civil disobedience to attract

SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

The level of civil disobedience usually consists of disorderly conduct, blocking of public thoroughfares, and refusal to leave after receiving a lawful order to disperse. Additionally, it is likely that additional groups with their own agenda may piggyback on the exposure of the Occupy Austin event. This has been seen in other cities that are experiencing Occupy protests.

These additional protestors may include person(s) who advocate violence as a means to express civil disobedience and use the presence of the crowd to hide or mask their activities. Social media postings continue an acknowledgment by event organizers that there may be individuals who may take "autonomous" action.

The outlook for this operational period is expected to continue without major incidents, but due to the fluid nature of the events officers should maintain situational awareness at all times. In other cities there continues to be a very high anti-police sentiment; officers should be aware of the potential for anti-police direction actions be expressed through a group mentality. Occupy sites in California and New York are experiencing recent events where protestors are being arrested for continued acts of civil disobedience.

ARIC personnel continue to monitor social networking sites and news media outlets for indicators of planned or pending criminal activity. First responders should remain vigilant to the possibility of unexpected changes in the direction of protests.

12-4-2011 Direct action meeting

this meeting took place at the "hideout" coffee shop in the 700 blk Congress Ave

the meeting was headed up by Duffy, (John Duffy)

advised he works evenings

advised he boxes in the late afternoons

advised he can do OA business "early" (earlier in the day time)

At the end of this meeting, the plan of action was to rent a u-haul box van from the u-haul across from the target location.

The participants will stage at the strip mall p-lot, just to the south of the target location. The participants will load up into the van with "lock boxes" (dragon sleeves) and either place the dragon sleeves onto their arms in the van or put them on once the van unloads them at the target location. Participants will block the entrance to the distribution center which the 18 wheelers enter/exit. Dragon sleeves most likely made from pvc pipe and chain with "d" rings

Surveillance is planned for Tuesday on the target location

Determine patterns of the 18 wheelers coming and going

Security for the location

Measure width of exit/entrance for 18 wheelers

H/f Yeltza (or something like that) is also heavily involved in this direct action. She said she is willing to be arrested during this action.

There were at least 4 people at this meeting who advised they were willing to be arrested during this direct action. 2 of these people advised they knew several others who would also be willing to get arrested during this action.

Other tactics discussed at this meeting:

Use of square hay bales to block entrance as well as cement parking lot stoppers

Use of "A" frame ladder with a person locked/chained to the ladder at the top. This obstacle would be placed in the driveway of the target in order to slow police's efforts to make arrests.

Use of a sheet of plywood with a rope or chain woven through it and a person locked to it. This would allow a person to take up a larger space and block the entrance.

A follow up meeting where this action will be further discussed will take place Wed. 12-7-2011 at 10 pm

All,

I wanted to take a moment to share with you the great sense of pride I have experienced during the past nine days watching team APD in its efforts to ensure the safety of our community as people exercise their First Amendment Right to Free Speech and the right to peaceful assembly.

The collective efforts of our sworn-staff, from patrol, HEC, SRT, Intel, ARIC, RTCC, HEC, Air-Ops, SWAT, Special Operations, and our leadership cadre, as well as the efforts of our civilian support staff, have been outstanding. You are all conducting yourselves in a manner consistent with the best traditions of the Austin Police Department.

Although we have no indication on when the Occupy movement will end in Austin or other cities throughout the United States, I am certain of one thing, and that is of our commitment to continue to police in a constitutionally sound manner. We all may be witnessing a moment of time in our Nation's history that may end up having historical significance, I am certain that thanks to all of you, we will be remembered as a department that did everything within its collective power to "Defend the First" and secure the peace.

On behalf of the APD leadership team, thank you all for your excellence. I know that the Mayor and Council, our City Manager, and the people we serve join me in thanking you all for a job well done to date.

As always, please be safe and do not hesitate to call upon me or a member of your leadership team if we can be of assistance.

With Great Admiration,

Indigenous People's Day March (Committee Notes)

Convene at 4:30 to leave at 5. Return by 7 for the G.A.

- Keep a safe space in mind for folks with disabilities and people with children. Using balloons to identify where children and vulnerable people are.
- Certain people will be traffic control ie stop traffic ahead of time to make sure people can stay together --- tied into passing stuff out, flyers, zip files
- Route:
- Go east on Cesar Chavez to Congress (we will be on west side of Congress). Go north on Congress, stopping at Chase Bank (600 Congress Ave), ending up on capitol. Once at the capitol, a contingency group will scout out if anything is going on at the capitol which could provide opportunity for media coverage, dialogue, or disruption. Turn around and head back on the east side of Congress avenue, stopping at Bank of America (515 Congress Ave), returning via 2nd street to confront shoppers and diners.
- Bank Stops:
- JP Morgan Chase on the way (600 Congress Ave -- west side of street) where someone will make a short statement on JP Morgan Chase's $4.7 million donation to the NYPD in response to Occupy Wall Street.
- Bank of America on the way-back (515 Congress Avenue) where someone will make a short statement about how cuts to social programs hurt already-marginalized communities (people of color, queer and trans folks, women) first and worst
- The group as a whole will respect the diversity of tactics of its individuals as long as they remain nonviolent to people (not property). There will be no internal 'movement police' to jump on individuals or hand them over to the authorities. The group as a whole will not support, join in, or send any message regarding any individual tactic, but allow for any variety of tactics under the mantle of nonviolent civil disobedience.

I have also included the flyer for the event as an attachment. Updates will follow with new information.

Lt. Mark Spangler, Director
Austin Regional Intelligence Center

OA GA - Sat Dec 3, 2011 @ 4pm

- * Dec 11th - There will be a teach-in on the south lawn of the Capital at 3pm. Topic is "political pranksterism", in which they will discuss successful political pranks and propose any that may further the movement.
- * Dec 12th - AISD is supposed to have a vote on converting an east side elementary school to a charter school. There appears to be considerable opposition to the privatization of this school. There is some discussion as to camping out the night before and demonstrating the day of, perhaps at an AISD facility.
- * Dec 12th - Nationwide Occupy "Port Day". Occupy Denver has called out to landlocked Occupy movements to block Wal Mart Distribution centers. Occupies in port cities are said to make a concerted effort to block ports. "Duffy" called for what amounts to a working group meeting at 7pm at Hideout Coffee House on Congress on Dec 4.
- * Jan 17th - An announcement was that there's a plan for Occupy movements across the nation to plan a "big action" on this, the four month anniversary of Occupy Wall Street. OA members seem to be excited that they will have sufficient time to adequately plan an action.

Dec 12 "Port Day" Action

- * 8-10 people in attendance at Hideout coffee at 7p
- * Many ideas discussed, but appears that planned action will be use of "human lockboxes" (i.e. dragon sleeves), and possibly tents chained together.
- * Idea is to disrupt the flow of commercial trucks in/out of Wal Mart distribution center in New Braunfels
- * Will ask GA for money for supplies
- * Asking for additional action, in waves, by OSA, OSM and OTS
- * May rent a Uhaul in New Braunfels to facilitate the action
- * Tentative plan is to meet at 10am on Monday morning at the shopping center south of the WM distribution center
- * Some folks are going to scout the area on Tuesday during the day
- * There will be a Wed night meeting at 22:30 at Spider House

* Likely a rehearsal on Sunday before the action

* Group is cognizant of the overall reputation of OA, and seems readily opposed to anything that could be considered vandalism. This sub-group appears systematically opposed to violence against individuals. Further they're fearful of retaliation by truck drivers

* Ladder proposal

* physical barrier proposal

* Group is not interested in disrupting the administrative offices or their traffic flow. They are very reluctant to get very far on the property, but are concerned that the frontage road may be "federal" property

Dear Sirs,

Shannon and I will be attending this meeting. It was briefly mentioned by "Duffy" in the GA at the capital last night. They mentioned doing it at the "San Marcos" center, which I believe is actually in New Braunfels.

Take care,

Gonzo,

There are two distribution centers in Central Texas. One is in New Braunfels the other is in Temple. Both are about an hour from downtown. Given the current minimal strength of the OA movement, I doubt this will turn out to be much of a deal, but it is still important enough for our regional LE partners to have the details in order to plan accordingly. Would it be possible to have someone available to sit in on this meeting and report back to Calvin or Det. Swann?

I also learned today that the live stream from OA is down due to computer issues so we are going to need as much info from the officers on the ground as possible to collect on the issued information needs.

I will be out Monday and Tuesday, but Tom will be Acting Lt in my absence. I can be reached by phone or email if needed.

Thank you.

Gentlemen,

Our UC's just checked in and advised the following.

A group of OA intends to support the call to action by OA Denver for a port blockade on December 12 by blockading the Wal-Mart distribution center in New Braunsfels, Tx. They are planning to deploy around 11 am on Monday, December 12.

The "working group" was about 8-10 individuals. They are currently in the planning phase, but the general consensus is that they are willing to be arrested. One said that she has 10 others who would be willing to be arrested.

They intend to use "lock-boxes" (Dragon-Sleeves) to create a human chain across the truck entrance of the distribution facility. They are looking for design schematics on how to easily build these devices. We have an opportunity for one of our UC's to provide designs that are easier for a cut-team to defeat, if this is permissible.

There is talk of renting a Uhaul that they can all load up in for rapid deployment on arrival, however it is unlikely that any of this group would sign for and be responsible for the rental.

There are a couple of individuals that will be driving to the facility for reconnaissance to determine gate / driveway size, etc.

They have discussed a rehearsal on Dec 11th to work out how to rapidly deploy with the lock-box devices.

They are hoping that Occupy San Antonio, Occupy UT, and other groups will also come, but there are no solid plans in the works made with them as of yet.

 There was discussion of using tactics that would damage property, such as dumping screws in the driveway, or chaining trailers to poles, however the group consensus was that they did not want to cause property damage. They only want to disrupt the distribution facility and create a scene. They would like to have a line of trucks backed up on the freeway for a show. They do not plan to blockade the administrative entrance.

There is a follow-up OA meeting at 7 pm tomorrow and we will have coverage.

Tomorrow I will have Ofc Zacchius identify plans for the easiest to defeat lockboxes and provide those to our UC. Are there any issues with us providing plans found on the internet?

Thanks,
Tom

I found this on the Houston Chronicle website. Apparently, the people that were arrested at the Port Action Day, and that had used "dragon sleeve" type devices, were taken to tents that were set up. The public was not allowed to see how the arrested protesters were cut out of these devices.

I did find a picture of Duffy being arrested. (In all black). It is posted on the Occupy Austin Facebook page. I also recognized a guy by the name of Kyle who was photographed by the Houston Chronicle. I had actually spoken to Kyle at the Spider House meeting. He did not want to go to Harris County jail, so I don't think he had originally planned on getting arrested.

Here is the website, and I will attach the photos to this email.

Moore 12/07/11 4:24 pm

I'm going to check prices at zinger. Or that place by campus

Dowell 12/07/11

The one on 29th st?

I'll look at Lowes just incase price matters more than principle

Moore 12/07/11

Yeah, 29th

Dowell 12/07/11

What size/ type of chain should I be looking at?

Moore 12/07/11

Cheap chain is fine. Check prices for carabiners, too.

Dowell 12/07/11

I guess 1/4" bolts for the carabiner attachment point?

Moore 12/07/11

Quarter to half..

Rick 12/07/11 4:58 pm

You guys need help anywhere? I'm still killing time. You guys really think we'll get patted down today? I don't see the rest of the group allowing that

Dowell 12/07/11

I say we shoot em if they start that sh!t!

Rick 12/07/11

Besides them being paranoid, I don't see them doing that. We're going to be at a coffee house anyway

Dowell 12/07/11

On a brighter note... I'm gonna stop for food as soon as I'm done at Lowes. Lemme know if anyone is interested

- 2) 12/15 8 am to 4 pm - silent protest in republic park against the nat'l defense authorization act. At 4pm there will be a march to the capital from republic
- 3) Monday's ga ls canceled to protest the AISD vote for an east side charter school @ AISD hq
- 4) Anton has stepped down from several responsibilities...lots of dissension
- 5) lots of dissension in general
- 6) factions are upset about the arrests of OA people in Houston. 3 were arrested for felonies. Fractured over the tactics employed in Houston.
- 7) "Pops" was present at ga tonight. He's the one rumored to be running the "step" people. He's about 6'2"/260. W/m in his late 40's/early 50's. Blondish hair with a pony tail down past the middle of his back. Resembles country music star Trace Adkins (not a fan btw), both in looks and voice...deep baritone voice. He's reportedly slinging at city hall. This is the first ga I've seen him at, and he had a proposal that he agreed to bring up later. Think it has to do with moving GA's back to city hall.

At last night's meeting, an announcement was made for volunteers to go to city hall and sign up to speak at the 3-1-2012 city council meeting. the goal was to take up 10 speakers spots at that meeting by OA personnel.

Duffy announced that the "pro-bono" attorneys representing him and others arrested at the Houston, Tx. "port action" are needing $2600.00 for expenses related to this representation.... not so "pro bono" is it, you silly activists!!!

The rest of the night the GA spent going over the Finance Working Group's rules for operation of that group. All of what they were discussing and approving can be found on the OA website (say they).

They authorized $125 for materials and are getting 5-6 tents donated. They had a conference call with Houston, and apparently Houston is going to do a post action after all. OA may redirect this action to Houston as an autonomous action in solidarity with them. Wal Mart may take a backseat.

More people in ga seemed in favor of the port action, as opposed to WMM. Reponedly the IIA (International longshoreman association maybe?) will help fund OA's costs for the action/trip to Houston.

At tonight's GA Duffy announced a working group which would begin protesting Monsanto offices. He has offices targeted in Fredricksburg, College Station, and Lockhart Tx, which he intends to eventually "shut down". He plans to get grass roots support from local farmers who have been negatively affected by Monsanto and get them to join in on blockading the offices in those towns. Duffy did state that he was going to deliver a petition to the offices and notify them that they were being "shut down". He said that the offices would "know we are coming".

At the Strategies meeting, later that night, he introduced a guest speaker. She was a l/wf who said she was 40 yoa and has been an activist since she was 16 yoa... she advised she has been involved in multiple protests and has been "the person breaking windows and going to jail" on many occasions. She advised no change would be effected by nonviolent protest and was advocating that Occupy Austin take on a heavier approach to their activism. She is affiliated with Occupy the Machine (aka Deep Green Resistance, DeepGreenResistance.org). She hinted at upcoming actions in Houston, TX and West Virginia (regarding mountain top removal). Due to "security culture" no details regarding the Houston event were discussed. This woman did say that the aim of these actions will be to actually shut down the targets for good. She also made reference to the Deep Green Resistance possibly being involved in both the West Virginia and Houston actions upcoming. There were at least 2 "new faces" at this meeting who, it appeared had accompanied this woman to this meeting at Dominican Joes.

"Mr. Anonymous" was briefly brought up by Duffy, regarding the Monsanto actions. He invited anyone in the meeting group that happens to be "good friends with Mr. Anonymous" to summon his expertise to hack Monsanto.

ANNOUNCING THE FIRST "FUCK THE POLICE" MARCH IN AUSTIN TEXAS FTP!

This event is being called by various Anarohists and radicals in Austin Texas

This event is explicitly Anti-Police and Anti-Capitalist, if you do not identify with those things you are not encouraged to attend. Everyone who does is welcome to participate. Non-violent participants are also welcome to attend, but those folks should ...be aware that this march has no guidelines for its tactics. NV participants are expected to not interere with other other demonstrators who may use differing tactics to express their discontent with the state.

We created this event in response to the call for solidarity put out by the citizens of Oakland who have been participating in these marches for several weeks now. No longer can we ignore this call. We did not create a facebook event for this march because we recognize that facebook alienates the participants in these demonstrations by giving law enforcement and city officials a list of participants and organizers that end up becoming targets, so please pass this along your social networks as much as you can. FTP! Austin will be the first of many FTP marches that will be planned in the coming weeks. Join us in the spirit of open revolt against the racist police state that we live in, and understand that there is no excuse for Austin to sit back and remain passive while our comrades around the world face violent state repression. There is no excuse to continue to sit back and let the racist Austin Police Department along with every other facet of law enforcement private or public to brutalize and murder children in the most marginalized communities in our area. There are no borders in this struggle. To quote our friends in the bay area - "Please do not consume the images from the Bay as you would the images of overseas rioting or as a netflix subscription. Our hell is yours, and so too is our struggle." We hold our friends in Oakland in the highest regard; their actions have been an inspiration to all of us.

The destination(s) of the march will be decided once we gather on the bridge. Please wear black and bring signs and banners if you are able.

I forgot "Trainwreck". And I misdated the first report.

A w/m appeared at the GA tonight and introduced himself as "Trainwreck". He was wearing skater attire and had a skateboard with him. He proposed posting stickers and posters around the warehouse district which would notify the public about the APD's past ten years of abusing the public. Trainwreck said he has been falsely arrested more than 3 times by APD and he has been harrassed and abused physically by APD. He claimed to have several videos of APD officers physically abusing citizens and asked for help in editing the video so it could be put on YouTube. He made clear that everything he wanted to do would be legal and only for purposes of making the public aware of how bad APD treats people. It appeared he did get some people interested in helping him with his video editing and may soon get his project going in the warehouse area and on YouTube.

Last night was the first ever Spoke's Council meeting (to be renamed later). This has replaced Thursday's CA, and is where magnets report back to the council. This is a distinct attempt to get organized, and was agreed upon prior to the eviction. In theory there will be more accountability, and the ability to prioritize proposed actions. Here are some notable items:

From the IT group (different than Web Team):

Feb 25th - America Hack-a-thon. The group will COA info they've gleaned (stuff about HPA "licensed" waterways, etc.) to do open-source (sic) hacking (the magnet was speaking quickly, so it was difficult to differentiate the following information)

IT is also hosting hack-a-thons in conjunction with, or on the following dates or locations

- 1) SXSW
- 2) Black Sheep Lodge
- 3) April 13-14 - This will be a "lock-in" for hackers to do open-source stuff to put out to the world.

The IT magnet said that there would be many more events through what has been dubbed the "Summer of Code"

The Twitter magnet put out that they are going to try to organize "controllers" for journalists and live-streamers during big events/rapidly evolving actions. A "controller" would, in essence, think for the journalist/live-streamer by listening to scanners, giving out routes or shortcuts and the like.

Most of this information is probably on Twitter. I did not see a live-stream last night.

Take care.

Tonight's meeting was attended by around 70 people. There wasn't too much information given at GA tonight.

I was approached by Paco tonight about attending the City Council meeting tomorrow beginning at 10 am. OA is attempting to get between 20-30 people to write signs and to bring them into the City Council meeting. They know that they are unable to speak in the meeting. But they are able to bring signs into the meeting.

Around the meeting is over, around 2 pm, they are going to try and get up to the 3rd floor of City Hall to speak to Marc Ott. Even if they are unable to get to speak to Ott, they are planning to 'mic check' Ott from the hallway. They are aware that they may possibly be arrested. It is unclear on how many people may want to get arrested.

Tonight's General Assembly was pretty low key.

The biggest concern that came out of this meeting was the location in which the occupiers are to pick up their belongings that were confiscated in Friday night's eviction. One of the occupiers mentioned that they were to contact the following email address

Erig.Stockton@suglntexas.gov

They listed Stockton's work location, and location of the belongings, as 721 Rutherford Ln. Our OCD offices are located at 1520 Rutherford, and we are unaware of any other city buildings located in the 700 blk of Rutherford Ln. We contacted ARIC and they informed us that Stockton works at 1520 Rutherford Ln., next to the I.A. offices.

If this is the location of the belongings, this can be very dangerous to us, and to other OCD officers. We would be unable to access our offices due to the possibility that some of the occupiers may identify us. They know our faces, and they know our vehicles. We have given a number of occupiers rides home, or dropped off items at occupier's homes.

We are wondering if the belongings of the occupiers can be moved to a different location.

Occupier, Amanda, is arranging a march in solidarity with AISD teachers on March 2nd at 2 pm at the Capitol. Teachers are going to walk out of their schools on this date in protest of continued standardized testing that are being required at Texas schools.

Will give more information on this event as they become available.

There has been a permit granted for City Hall on March 17th. This is the same event that has been mentioned before for the Million Band March from the Capitol to City Hall.

There was a request for a march to APD Headquarters after the General Assembly in support of all occupiers that have ever been arrested during the occupy movement. This request was not granted by the majority of occupiers for tonight. The plan was to march to APD Headquarters with a silent mediation taking place in front of headquarters. This could possibly happen later this week.

A number of occupiers are also planning a lawsuit against APD due to the "brutality" occupiers experienced during their arrest on Friday, and in the past. The citizens review panel phone number was given to all occupiers so that they may call and file complaints against officers that have made arrests throughout the occupy movement.

Hello all,

There were about 20 people at GA tonight, less than a quorum. Once we got to the proposal section they were able to rally a quorum until the rallied few realized the first proposal had to do with money, and quorum quickly dissipated. That proposal was tabled and will be advertised for Sat night's GA. The second proposal evolved in to a discussion. The proposal, had a quorum been present, would've been to reduce to number of people needed for a quorum to twenty. There was a lot of discussion about poor attendance, and that there are several cliques within Occupy. This echoes Friday night's info GA, which was a similar discussion involving different people. Several folks seemed to think that having as few as 2 GA's per week would be better, this allowing for more focus on those assemblies and on working groups. This will likely be brought to the attention of the next GA. Here is the only new event announced:

March 19 - Occupy Monsanto. One of the OA folks have started a nationwide working group about Monsanto. This will be a national call to action against the evil that is Monsanto. At least one OA'er will travel to St. Louis for a hunger strike.

After GA I spoke with the twitter magnet and asked if we had anything going on Saturday. He said OA had been asked to stand in solidarity with the protest at the Main, which he specified was not an OA action. He said he forgot to announce it in GA, and seemed troubled by that. I expressed interest, but asked how "crazy" it was going to get. He said, "I don't know, I guess it depends on "how crazy APD gets." It's clear he did not have intimate knowledge of the plan, so I didn't press any further. I live about 100 yards from the Main, so I can attend if necessary. I believe my cohorts are out of pocket, with one moving in to a 1%er house. I have no problem attending alone, but I would like to know how crazy APD plans to get...if at all possible.

I was approached tonight and asked to play the part of a military soldier for the first Thursday NDAA protest. I agreed to participate which will give me an opportunity to voice previously-held concerns about the kidnapping skits.

Take care,

"Liar" aka "White Liar" aka "Whiter Liar" is David Homan 11/09/75. He may or may not have actually had a shiner. He likes to wear makeup under his eyes, frequently lipstick. He is pretty recognizable with that an his signature steampunk goggles as well as, by his own statement, being the only homeless guy to always wear a tie.

He is one of Austin's homeless by choice, and actually has a fairly legitimate technical expertise, but I don't think it extends to taking down facebook profiles. I could be underestimating him though.

Hello all,

On both Thursday and Friday nights, the OA turn out was dismal at best. Thursday saw the group splintering off, which in effect killed the GA. The focus of Friday's meeting was the apparent reduction in attendance. The facilitator basically took it upon himself to begin looking at ways to reinvent the structure of OA, including how GA's are conducted (they spoke of renaming GA's to GB's as an evolution from a to b). There was a clear disdain for the "Facebook occupiers", who the group claim to be planning things "behind the backs" of the others. Personally, I thought that perhaps the movement was losing steam. There was a good turnout for the bank action on Saturday, and it just so happens that about 15 people were at a house, on Friday night, making signs for the action. While there was no significant public safety issue with the bank action, it was clear that a lot of planning and preparation went in to the action...behind our backs. Additionally, our contingent of occupiers were just returning from DC, which likely caused fewer people to attend.

Tonight's GA was back to a normal attendance, thus making me retract my earlier thought about the waning support of the movement.

There was an individual of particular note at the info GA on Friday night. This guy said his name is "Liar", and while he attended many events in the beginning, he has been absent as of late. It became clear that he's upset with many in the movement who apparently called for him to be ousted violating the core values. This violation apparently stemmed from an incident during an early action where someone's property was damaged. This guy showed up on Friday with his own banner stating the occupy belongs to him...he is, in effect, protesting the lack of protesting. He told the info GA that he would've stepped back and put his sign down if any one had come to fly an Occupy sign. He told me later that he did not attend the decentralized dance party, rather he "followed" the party and posted his own occupy literature along the route. What makes this guy worth mention is that - when people were complaining about the "Facebook occupiers" - he quipped something to the effect of, "just tell me their names and I'll pull their profiles down." That comment jumped out at me in the face of recent acts conducted by the hacker group Anonymous (sp?). This guy always has some old school motorcycle/aviation goggles on top of his cap. On Friday night he was sporting a shiner on his right eye, and perhaps the beginning of one on his left. He told us he's leaving for Occupy Tuscon next week. One of my cohorts attempted to get a photo of him on Saturday, but he was making every effort to conceal his face. I will apprise you of any further information.

Take care,

Regarding the "snatch and grab's". There were several ideas brought up during the meeting. We will drive around town in a van wearing Army style uniforms and meet other Occupiers who are in on this "street theatre". We will either snatch them and drive off, or drag them into the van, place a black bag over their head and zip tie their hands and release them in the same spot from which they were snatched from.

The idea of just having Occupiers walk around populated areas with a black bag on Their head and hands zip tied was also discussed. The "NDAA detainee" would thereby get attention and be able to discuss the civil rights problems with the NDAA.

Using some form of this tactic at the First Thursday event on S. Congress was also hotly debated and will most likely happen.

For some reason use of a van or some type of vehicle seems to be important to the core wanna-be Anarchists in this group. But as we've seen in the past, if someone has to rent/be responsible for a vehicle, it most likely won't happen.

Shannon D.

6th @Congress was one location talked about for doing this "street theatre" action.

There were a lot of new faces, including a UTSA MBA student who was looking to interview occupiers and speak to them about how the movement was being run. Her paper will be about what she can conclude to do to help make the movement run better.

There were also 6 artists that are working with Mary Ann to get the "Million Band March" set up for March 17th. I will expound on that more in a bit.

In tonight's weekly meeting at Dominican Joe's, Duffy and Michelle laid out a lot of the plan for what was going to happen on February 3rd's National Day of Action Against the NDAA.

During the General Assembly, I was recruited by Kyle (one of the Anarchists) to assist in a militant type action that Duffy was planning out. Kyle's phone number is [REDACTED]

Kyle asked me if I would be interested in dressing in black, with black fatigues and black combat boots, to have more of a military type presence during the NDAA march. He stated that we would be "separate from Occupy Austin" a little bit during the march. I told him I was interested. I think that since I am able to grow a beard and wear a black mask, this helped me become the first Hispanic recruited into the Occupy Austin Anarchists. For some reason, I believe Deek and Shannon were already shoe ins.

During the meeting at Dominican Joe's, Duffy pretty much laid out that he wanted to have a more aggressive presence during the protest. One thing that he said he has heard is that Occupy Austin doesn't have the "angry" presence that it did when the movement first began.

Duffy's group is looking to have a protest beginning at 11 am on February 3rd before joining Michelle's group for a silent protest that begins at Noon. Other groups they are looking to recruit to make the march larger are a socialist group, immigrant groups, and ACLU.

The silent protest is to begin at Noon at 11th and Congress, on the South Lawn at the Capitol.

At 5 pm Duffy's group is looking to reorganize for another protest that will last about an hour, before we regroup with again with Michelle's group that will have a rally and candle lit march beginning at 6 pm.

Michelle plans on getting material for a sign that is large enough to list the names of the Texas senators that voted in favor of NDAA. She mentioned that the senator's names and phone numbers would be listed on the sign. The logistics for the march from Duffy and Michelle have yet to be laid out. Just like everything else in the Occupy Movement, they are still planning, and hoping, that things will be organized before the event. They are planning on posting flyers in English, and Spanish, throughout the city at local stores.

When Michelle asked for help in finding local places where she could purchase fabric, or other materials, to make the signs, Kyle told her of a place on Westgate that has donated material in support of the Occupy Movement. Along with needing material for this march, it was brought up that a "Snatch and Grab" scenario may be set up for 1st Thursday on February 2nd. This is also in the planning stages.

The group is trying to figure out where they can get a van rented to snatch up the people, get people that want to be snatched up, and where to buy military looking uniforms for the role players that are "snatching up people" from the sidewalk, and placing them in the van. They plan on putting black bags/pillow cases over the "detained" prisoners. (Deek or Shannon, can you guys go into further detail on exactly how they were explaining this role play scenario?)

A thought came into our heads that maybe we could ask APD for old uniforms (since we are all going to be outfitted by Galls soon) and APD may donate military type uniforms for the Occupy cause. We weren't sure exactly how the occupiers would accept the graciousness from APD, but we figured it was worth a try.

While speaking about the occupier's views of APD, Levi got on his soapbox about his views of APD. Apparently you guys, in reference to those of you who still dress in uniform, are nothing more than a gang in Levi's eyes. APD is like any other gang who wears a uniform and dresses the same. Many APD officers are ex-military and are plagued by PTSD from their military experiences. APD officers are violent and physical. Just this weekend APD sought out a specific individual and discriminately arrested him because APD had "prior knowledge" of this individual. During the arrest, this guy was thrown on his back aggressively, before he was arrested at City Hall. A perfect example of the PTSD these officers are struggling with.

Since Acevedo is from L.A., he has brought a lot of LAPD officers with him who are also very violent in their actions. The officers in D.C. are used to protesters, and they are better trained than APD officers who do not know how to handle protesters. D.C. cops are much nicer, and a lot cooler than APD. (All this is from the description Levi had of APD)

So I guess it's just a matter time before Deek, Shannon, and I crack, and have a violent outburst because of the PTSD we've experienced in our careers.

On a SXSW note, Mary Ann brought some musicians that are co-opting with Occupy Austin for the Million Band March on March 17th. The musicians that she brought have already obtained a permit for the Capitol. From Noon-3pm there will be music and talks at the Capitol. Guy Forsythe, Carolyn Wonderland, and other bands are set to play for this event.

At 3 pm a march is set to go through SXSW activities, and end up at City Hall. They are planning on trying to have a concert at City Hall when they arrive. The working group is still in its early stages of planning this event. No other information available at this time.

I spoke to Duffy as I was leaving. Although they are planning for a militant type march on February 3rd, he is wary of who participates with the Anarchists. There are at least 3 people in this group, Duffy one of them, that are out on bond for other civil disobedience type charges. He does not want people involved that may provoke the cops to arrest any of them.

I think that we all learned tonight that APD is not trained well enough to handle protests, and that PTSD has infiltrated the department. I believe there is a "shame on you" being silently chanted at this moment.

Hello all,

On both Thursday and Friday nights, the OA turn out was dismal at best. Thursday saw the group splintering off, which in effect killed the GA. The focus of Friday's meeting was the apparent reduction in attendance. The facilitator basically took it upon himself to begin looking at ways to reinvent the structure of OA, including how GA's are conducted (they spoke of renaming GA's to GB's as an evolution from a to b). There was a clear disdain for the "Facebook occupiers", who the group claim to be planning things "behind the backs" of the others. Personally, I thought that perhaps the movement was losing steam. There was a good turnout for the bank action on Saturday, and it just so happens that about 15 people were at a house, on Friday night, making signs for the action. While there was no significant public safety issue with the bank action, it was clear that a lot of planning and preparation went in to the action...behind our backs. Additionally, our contingent of occupiers were just returning from DC, which likely caused fewer people to attend.

Tonight's GA was back to a normal attendance, thus making me retract my earlier thought about the waning support of the movement.

There was an individual of particular note at the info GA on Friday night. This guy said his name is "Liar", and while he attended many events in the beginning, he has been absent as of late. It became clear that he's upset with many in the movement who apparently called for him to be ousted violating the core values. This violation apparently stemmed from an incident during an early action where someone's property was damaged. This guy showed up on Friday with his own banner stating the occupy belongs to him...he is, in effect, protesting the lack of protesting. He told the info GA that he would've stepped back and put his sign down if any one had come to fly an Occupy sign. He told me later that he did not attend the decentralized dance party, rather he "followed" the party and posted his own occupy literature along the route. What makes this guy worth mention is that - when people were complaining about the "Facebook occupiers" - he quipped something to the effect of, "just tell me their names and I'll pull their profiles down." That comment jumped out at me in the face of recent acts conducted by the hacker group Anonymous (sp?). This guy always has some old school motorcycle/aviation goggles on top of his cap. On Friday night he was sporting a shiner on his right eye, and perhaps the beginning of one on his left. He told us he's leaving for Occupy Tuscon next week. One of my cohorts attempted to get a photo of him on Saturday, but he was making every effort to conceal his face. I will apprise you of any further information.

Take care,

Lt. Spangler,

Per our earlier conversation about OA monitoring our frequencies, I spoke with the individual who gave those updates throughout the 3rd anniversary march. He asked if I knew a female named "[REDACTED]" (sp?). [REDACTED] was monitoring a scanner and providing him updates via Twitter. I asked him if it was an actual scanner or an app, and he immediately started speaking about an app. I could not get clarification about which method [REDACTED] used. He did show me an app on his phone that I believe was called "real scanner". I am not familiar with the brand of his phone, nor its OS. He told me that he uses that app, and showed me how you could narrow down the frequency search to ones that are nearby. I gathered this information to the point I felt he was questioning why, and discontinued the conversation. I was the only person in that conversation with him, so it is sensitive information. I hope you find that helpful.

Thanks,

Here are updates from Thursday, Friday and Monday meetings.

Newly formed groups

- 1) Occupy AISD - focused on Education issues and Protesting IDEA Charter. They are likely going to call for protests of the school board meeting next Monday night. OA is aligned with another group protesting the IDEA, Pride of the East Side.
- 2) OccuQueers - open to people of all sexual orientations, seeking to determine if there are any issues this group could address within Occupy, or outside the movement.
- 3) Occupy SXSW - Will be coordinating events throughout SXSW. May have a "million musician march" that wants to march on behalf of OA.

Upcoming Events

- 1) Tuesday, January 17 - Call to action at the capital at 6pm to show solidarity to the national movement to Occupy DC. We were unable to determine if any shenanigans are planned, but we will be in attendance.
- 2) Saturday, Jan 21 (Noon to 5pm) - An all out Nerd-a-thon (sic) is planned at Austin Java. There is a call for all IT/Tech type folks to attend this super summit. There is speculation that a group of Austin Hackers may attend and align themselves with OA.
- 3) Monday, Jan 23 - Possible protest at AISD
- 4) Sunday, Jan 29 - OA will conduct a "silent protest" along the hike and bike trail on Lady Bird Lake.
- 5) Feb 3 - National Action Against NDAA. Still seems to be gathering steam
- 6) Feb 4 - Evening march on 6th St. Focus of the march will be about the City's camping ban

General

- 1) The group condensed to move all GA's back to City Hall.
- 2) Tonight the owner of the original "base camp", Chris LKU, came to GA to request money to offset the rapid rise of his utility bills during the Occupy days there. He claims Austin Energy is going to cut off his electricity, which would cut off his electric car business. This meeting was very contentious, if not divisive. The GA voted to give him $400 toward his utility bill that could be near $4500 (Chris gave varying figures about the bill, but did provide it to GA). This initial expenditure likely removes all liquid funds the movement has available. They initially voted to give Chris $500 until they realized that they only had $400. This leaves approximately $3000 in a "we pay"(sp?) account that they allegedly cannot access. There is an upcoming fundraiser on the 29th, and a few more on the table.

Another link put out to OA members for "mobilization" of OA members is:

Followoaaalerts@40404

I'm not much of a computer person and am not sure if ARIC can get any real info from this or not.

Regarding Wed's GA... There were not enough attendees to be able to pass/or make proposals (30 attendees required). Regarding today's meeting with Unitarian church, I was told that no actual offer was made by the church to OA offering land for a tent city. No other info regarding the meeting was available. This was an uneventful meeting.

Tomorrow at 2pm at Chavez and Congress a group of OA plans on getting on a city bus with tents. They plan on occupying Zilker park and possibly other east Austin parks. Planning on moving with their tents when police approach them regarding camping. They may do this again this Saturday.

Hello all,

The GA Monday was held on the mezzanine at city hall, likely due to the inclement weather. OA has recently discovered the mezzanine and like it. Attendance was low, also likely due to the weather. We attended the strategies and tactics meeting after the GA (Monday's at 9pm at Dominican Joe's). This meeting was long on hot air and short on actual action. Jan 24 - State of the Union address. Plans are to meet in the Congress bridge at 7p to demonstrate. March at 8pm. I believe you can follow this on Twitter at Sotuj24austintx (he said it rapidly so I may have written it down wrong).

Jan 29 - stand-up comedy fundraiser for OA at Hole in the Wall

Feb 3 - National Day of Action against NDAA (national defense authorization act). A lot of people are upset about this and it's likely that OA will be heavily involved. We even had a self-proclaimed non-OA Republican show up to the GA and strategy meeting to speak out against this act. I suspect my fellow occupiers will fill in any blanks I've missed.

Last night's attempt at co-opting the DDP event was an abject failure for Occupy. I, on the other hand, heard 3 different people refer to me as a "bum" in passing. The event ended at the Bob Bullock museum. The crowd dispersed pretty quickly and Occupy was unable to achieve getting any of the DDP attendees to join them at City Hall. In fact there were less than a dozen Occupiers (other than the 24-7ers) who made it to city hall after DDP.

As usual, Mr. Moore's report was thorough. The only thing I would add to it is that the Occupiers believed last night's march was a "victory" for the movement. They are very worried about the possible consequences of the fire at City Hall (being evicted, in their minds). This possibility is causing them to scramble for a solution/plan for being evicted.

I can't remember if any of us reported this, but on January 11th Occupy has a dinner/meeting with the Unitarian church (on Grover?) who have offered to let the Occupiers use some of their land to put a "tent city". The two parties will be discussing this issue at that dinner.

Subject: Sunday OA meeting

We attended a meeting this evening that was hailed as a working group for solidarity/proposed action to coincide with the MLK March on Jan 16. One of the main people touting this meeting was not in attendance. Initially there were 10 people total in the meeting, however 2 people quickly got upset and left; presumably they felt they weren't being heard and/or respected (the background music at Austin Java was too loud, but I believe this 60-something lady told the group to "f" off, if you will). Two of the remaining 8 were new to the group, while two were from Occupy UT and two of us were, well, us. Get where this is going? In a nutshell, nowhere.

Occupy UT clearly has a plan to join the march, and the two in attendance are clearly coordinating that effort and trying to get cooperation from OA. OUT folks were adamant that they are not going to co-opt or disrupt the march in any way. It appears that their plan remains as reported earlier this week. We suspect OA will join in the march, but the level of planning/preparation is dismal at this point. OUT folks were clearly frustrated at the lack of response from OA and it seems likely they will continue to distance themselves.

One OUT member also mentioned other (known dates) and recommended action in solidarity:

1/17 - OWS Anniversary
1/21 (?) - Bank Action day
1/24 - State of the Union address
2/3 - Nat'l day of action.

These dates did not get much play in the group. There could still be other OA fragments that are working on these actions. We deemed this meeting of high importance, but we're sorely disappointed.

I would like to add to Shannon's report from last night. The DDP (decentralized dance party) was clearly a non-OA event. It bears additional information because they will likely come back to Austin. There was a diverse crowd, lead by event coordinators in a "flash mob"-styled event. They broadcast dance music to numerous "boom boxes" (yep, 80's style!), which they provided to attendees. They were using some type of radio transmission feed that was contained within the march, and utilized a pre-set radio station. The coordinator repeatedly gave directions and engaged the crowd. It was clear that the coordinators were respectful of authority, particularly the police. They continually reminded people to stay out of the streets, if at all possible, and asked that people clean up trash before moving to the next location. One of the stops included several locations on the Capital grounds. Capital Police asked the coordinators to keep people clear of the building and that was announced. The crowd "booed" this request and the coordinator reminded them that officers were making it possible to have this party. In other words, they handled hecklers well, and respected the requests of local law enforcement. They also repeatedly asked that attendees respect the various memorials located on the Capital grounds. There was a brief period where the crowd took over the 200 blk of E 10th, but that seemed to be an anomaly. Other than a few folks partaking in a high-octane version of a green, leafy substance, the attendees were by and large having fun and doing so legally. That being said, it wouldn't hurt anyone to attend this event next time around...I'd dub it family-friendly, and submit you just might have fun. Had I not been overdosing on cedar pollen, I believe I'd have had a blast.

Here is the information on the decentralized dance party:

<http://www.facebook.com/events/116768595104804/>

Currently showing an expected 1800+ attendees.

It is scheduled to start at 8pm. The starting location was supposed to be published tonight, but as of 4am they were still "scouting" a location according to twitter (<http://twitter.com/DecDanceParty>)

At the bottom of the Facebook description is this list of items to bring to the party:

MORE FUN STUFF TO BRING:

Beach balls, balloons, mini trampolines, hula hoops, jump ropes, ROLLERBLADES, razor scooters, sound systems, Party lights, Large Cumbersome Objects To Party With, musical instruments, etc!

Nothing particularly troublesome in that, but depending on the turnout and the number of "Large Cumbersome Objects To Party With" it could be a problem.

Tonight's activities were light-hearted and designed for fun. They had birthday cake, an award ceremony (sorry, we didn't win any), a parody skit and a highlight video. The march went as planned with a few hiccups because of the directionally challenged. The first stop was Republic park. After not getting the anticipated response from officers, they elected to move on to Woolridge Park.

On the way to Woolridge, the Twitter magnet informed the group that officers were heard on a "scanner" and knew we were going to the park. We only stayed at Woolridge for a few minutes before the group abandoned the "park tour" plan and decided to go to the Capital (that change of plans was without discussion or we'd probably still be there deciding if we'd like to change the plan). On the way to the Capital we were given a similar update by the twitter magnet about officers meeting us at that destination. I notified Sgt Hawkins of this development and officers apparently adjusted their radio traffic. We were unable to determine exactly what traffic was being monitored, or how.

The group moved to 6th street where several stops were made so they could dance in the streets. One of the occupiers transported a PA system, powered by a generator, along the route in his pedi-cab. The music from this system was loud enough that it actually thwarted many attempts to organize a direction for the march or transmit any situational updates to the group as a whole. From 6th street we moved to Palm Park.

Everyone relaxed and/or danced at Palm. Late in the game they conducted a pseudo-GA to discuss expanding the occupation to Palm. Many wanted to camp for the night, and no other agreements were reached. A contingent elected to camp in Palm tonight and decided that, if officers showed up, they would pack up and march to another park and repeat the process. We updated Sgt Hawkins with this information.

Tomorrow night's march will be co-opting a non-OA march only referred to as a decentralized dance march. OA hopes to steer it back to City Hall, and they anticipate the numbers at 1,000. This event is on Facebook, but it is unknown what group is hosting it or how to look the event up. GA has been moved to City Hall for Sat night and the location of the march will be disclosed at that time.

It should be noted that Marc Ott observed a portion of the events this evening. Also in attendance was City Councilwoman Tovo.

Thanks,

Subject: Re: Occupy Party Update

Lt's,

We attended the Occupy UT meeting tonight (Boomer Sooner). The group is peaceful and intellectual. They are upset with recent tuition increases, and higher education issues. They are in conversation about the merits of "accepting" the university's stipulations for protesting, which does not seem to sit well the group. They do plan to march as a part of the MLK parade beginning on the 16th at 9am. They may break off to the park near Carver library (Kealing?) toward the end of the parade for teach-ins and guest speakers to include Robert King of the Angola 3.

There is a "party" scheduled for tonight to celebrate the 3-month anniversary of the OA movement. Indications are that they will set up tents, and when encountered by police, collect those tents and move to other locations and repeat the process. The purpose is to "tire" officers and ultimately end up back at city hall with the tents for an expanded occupation. Many people are discussing staying overnight in addition to the 24/7ers. Arrests and civil disobedient are likely.

OA folks are keenly aware of the "bonfire" incident and strongly denounce the action as being conducted by a person not involved in the movement. They plan on issuing a press release tomorrow on the matter. Additionally, they've discussed that the "bonfire" is a result of officers not being attentive to duty, and suggested making it an issue with the city and the dept.. The movement expects eviction in the next 24-48 hours and are trying desperately to concoct a back up plan, including occupying parks and other locations. They do believe, however, that they will be successful in the federal lawsuit heard recently here in Austin.

The movement is planning to co-opt a march of 1,000 people on Saturday, however that information is hush-hush at this time. More to follow as updates become apparent (no zombies yet)

Tonight's ga was particularly contentious given the totality of the circumstance.

Thanks,

SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

Requestor Name/Agency	Austin Police Department
Assigned To	C.DeGraffenreid #4664
Date/Time of Report	Update 1/06/2012 @ 11:00

(Special updated information highlighted)

(U) SYNOPSIS

- As part of the nationwide movement known as "Occupy Wall Street", an organized protest is scheduled to begin October 6, 2011 at 10:00am in Austin and continue indefinitely. The movement has issued a statement of solidarity with the protestors in New York; "We stand in solidarity with our brothers and sisters who Occupy Wall Street and occupy around the world. We are dedicated to non-violently reclaiming control of our governments from the financial interests that have corrupted them. We demand that our public servants recognize that the people are the supreme authority." The approved mission statement for the event states: "Our mission is to assert our rightful place within the political process and take the reins of power away from profit-driven interests."
- The organizers of the local event are calling for a peaceful, non-violent protest but there have been acts of civil disobedience and isolated criminal conduct associated with the nation-wide event.

(U-LES) Key Findings

Occupy Austin Priority Intelligence Requirements:

1. List of potential demonstration sites

- Primary gathering site is the plaza at Austin City Hall.
- Texas Capital Grounds
- Financial Centers in Downtown District
- 6th Street Entertainment District History
- University of Texas Campus-Near UT tower
- As of yet unidentified park in the Downtown area

2. Protest times and days of week

- January 4, 2012 10:00hrs Occupy Austin Bank action Travis County Foreclosure Auction
- January 6 -7, 2012 19:000hrs. This is the 3-month anniversary party for Occupy Austin. Events to celebrate this date are planned for these two days.
- January 14, 2012 09:00hrs Occupy Austin Tree Planting
- Beginning January 16, 2012 19:00hrs Occupy University of Texas plans to Occupy UT Tower.
- January 16, 2012 09:00-14:00hrs MLK day March
- January 20, 2012 Occupy the Courts 11:30-14:00 Federal Court House

SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

3. Potential demonstrator strength per site

- a. Current overall estimates for the event vary from early morning lows of around 20 people to highs during the evening of up to a couple of hundred. The largest march on October 15th rallied approximately 800-1000 people.
- b. Initial group discussions on/about October 6th, spoke of dividing into "platoon"-sized elements and moving to various secondary locations in the downtown area. Historically, this tactic has not materialized, but it should be considered as a potential tactic.
- c. Occupy Austin Protests Travis County Foreclosure Auction- This event had about 12 protesters who showed up at the Travis County property auction. Protesters showed up with signs and began chanting near where the auction was taking place. They stayed for approximately 10-15 minutes then left without incident. These events could continue on a monthly basis (1st Tuesday). In other Occupy cities, these protests have disrupted the sales and resulted in arrests disrupting a public meeting.
- d. The 3 month Occupy Austin birthday celebration is January 6th and protesters were originally seeking to obtain a permit for this event. An application for a permit has not been received by the City of Austin for this event. The organizers are aware of the restriction on amplified sound and are of the opinion to take their chances to see if they will be shut down or not. [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
- e. Occupy Austin Tree Planting- planned group of 50 persons to attend this event at 900 Robert E. Lee on south fence of the Barton Springs Pool.
- f. The Occupy University of Texas protest is continuing in its planning stages. According to open source reporting the event will coincide with the Martin Luther King Jr. Day celebration and will include members from the Occupy Wall Street Movement coming to the University of Texas Campus. This event is to include a march beginning from the MLK statue on the UT campus and ending at Huston Tillotson. [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
- g. [REDACTED]. The size of the MLK parade will influence the numbers of this protest.
- g. Occupy the Courts-National Day of Protest. Movetoammend.org applied for a permit to protest at the Federal Court House. The permit was approved but the Government Services Administration then realized the only place to protest is the sidewalk which belongs to the City of Austin. The application calls for less than 20 protesters to attend. Movetoammend.org is linked to Occupy Austin.

4. Demonstrated tactics and interaction with police in Austin and other cities

- a. Up to this point, the focus of the Occupy Austin movement has been on peaceful protest and they have made a point to encourage working with police. However, the online presence of the movement has often been highly anti-police and has focused on dealing with police response tactics such as wearing bandanas and goggles to protect against the use of pepper spray.

SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

- b. On October 10, 2011 the General Assembly of the Occupy Austin Protest discussed the subject of civil disobedience. Damaging property as a means of civil disobedience is being discussed as a tactic for "autonomous" individuals wanting to express themselves either inside or apart from the group. Violence against people was discouraged as a means of civil disobedience.¹
- c. The Occupy Austin has recently trained approximately 40-50 members in direct action civil disobedience. On the November 5th march, protesters took over several lanes of traffic while enroute and returning from their bank protest site. Protesters were also encouraged by other members to sit down in an intersection in an effort to disrupt traffic flow. This suggestion was rejected but it is the important to note its attempted use.
- d. There is continuing theme of unrest growing inside the occupy group. There have been increased calls to increase both the quantity and quality of civil disobedience and direct action as a protest tactic. A new splinter group dubbed "Guerilla Theater" has started a think tank for "creative, non-violent action."
- e. Officer Safety Bulletins from other Occupy sites across the city have pointed out the use or potential use of devices to defeat handcuffs and flex cuffs including pins and broken razorblades, a concealed handcuff key was recovered off a local protestor after he was arrested for chaining himself to a tree at City Hall. Another local activist was observed on-camera demonstrating how he could utilize a large industrial safety pin (with a spike approximately 6" in length) that he kept concealed at his waist as a weapon.

f. On January 5, 2012 at approximately 03:16hrs, a fire was started on the City Hall Plaza. AFD Arson investigators have made an arrest of the person believed to be responsible for the incident charging him with criminal mischief. There is information that the Occupy Austin (OA) protesters believe this bonfire

5. Any local open source discussions or otherwise detected

- a. Occupy Austin continues to hold General Assembly (planning) meetings every day since Sept 29th. Highest turnout for the planning meetings has been around 500 people and they usually average less than 100 people. General Assembly meetings are held at 19:00hrs. The locations have varied with the latest location being the old fire training tower on E. Cesar Chavez and at the Texas Capital grounds.
- b. The primary organizational website is www.occupyaustin.org
- c. Media releases from both national and local outlets are considered to have medium levels of reliability. Law enforcement personnel should confirm these reports before acting on information received through these outlets.
- d. Information posted on social media sites should be considered as unreliable or of low reliability. Law Enforcement personnel should confirm these reports with the Austin Regional Intelligence Center before acting on information received through these outlets.

SITUATIONAL AWARENESS

6. Assessment:

Based on open source research, the Austin Regional Intelligence Center assessment of this event suggests that the event could cause localized disruption in traffic if large numbers of people gather in small or confined areas. Protestors may continue to encourage/engage in civil disobedience to attract media coverage to their cause as an avenue of exposure.

The level of civil disobedience usually consists of disorderly conduct, blocking of public thoroughfares, and refusal to leave after receiving a lawful order to disperse. Additionally, it is likely that additional groups with their own agenda may piggyback on the exposure of the Occupy Austin event and that the Occupy Austin protesters will piggyback on other days of significance such as the MLK parade. This has been seen in other cities that are experiencing Occupy protests.

These additional protestors may include person(s) who advocate violence as a means to express civil disobedience and use the presence of the crowd to hide or mask their activities. Social media postings continue an acknowledgment by event organizers that there maybe individuals who may take "autonomous" action.

The outlook for this operational period is expected to continue without major OA incidents, but due to the fluid nature of the group and events, officers should maintain situational awareness at all times. Occupy sites in several cities are experiencing recent events where protestors are being arrested for continued acts of civil disobedience.

ARIC personnel continue to monitor social networking sites and news media outlets for indicators of planned or pending criminal activity. First responders should remain vigilant to the possibility of unexpected changes in the direction of protests. It is important to note that the Occupy Austin federal trial related to the issuance of criminal trespass notices ended without a verdict from the bench. This verdict could come during this operational period and may serve as a potential flash point when issued.

This document is Unclassified-Law Enforcement Sensitive and should not be further disseminated without the express permission of the Director of the Austin Regional Intelligence Center. This document is not for public release.

Good enough. Thanks.

I think it was handled or will be handled quietly. I need to enter the name w this phone. Which one is this?

If possible in the 30 minutes can you assess if the majority of the crowd is leaving or if they plan on hanging out through the night? And just a general number? Got it thanks. We probably need to move them out soon Can yall get to some cover? Find cover. Need you to hang loose until the notice is issued so we will know what the plans are for tonight and tomorrow. Need them to hang lose till The notice is issued so we can figure out the plan for tonight and tomorrow Awaiting word from coc on timing. Notice will be delivered at 2145hrs 10-12. Stay clear. I will advise on returning. UC's hold away from CH until further notice. Don't go 42 yet though. Stay available. Understood. Thanks. Notice just posted in FB of raid at CH. Understood. Live stream is now up. Any idea on numbers still left? 4. Let me know.

They are deciding to move to a new location? Arrests are being made now. Keep me apprised of location. Got it. You are at republic right Sand Guad? Got it. How many?

Just a guess?

I heard. They don't know.

4rr. Talk tomorrow.

There were more than 20

names from tonight's operation posted. We have screen captures of the we pages and will do preservation letters for the subscriber info to FB. We are going to address in the morning. We have enough info now to identify the people who posted it. Just received word that Protesters are being called to the TCCJ release area for a 13:30 gathering. TCSO has been notified. CC APD executives, SRT COMMAND STAFF Call me when possible I have a couple of areas to see if we can fill in please. 4-6842

OA Operational reminders:

19:00hrs emergency General assembly at CH 21:00hrs march to end Homelessness going to ARCH then through DT.

Evictions are currently occurring in other cities most notably in DC. These evictions serve to incite other protest sites.

Officers/dispatcher should be reminded to maintain radio discipline as our frequencies are being actively monitored. The inadvertent breach of OPSEC severely hinders the ability to monitor and effectively react. The safety of all officers is paramount. OA Operational Update:

Anticipated tactics for tonight: protesters will be utilizing similar tactics tonight once they leave CH. Tactic 1 Portland- Protesters march through the streets in a random manner. They will attempt to "loose" the police by going the wrong way on oneway streets. Bike officers would be good to have trailing at a distance as it will allow situational awareness without compromising UC's. The primary locations they will march to are in order of probability. Republic Square, 6th street Area, Palm Park, and Saltillo Plaza (unlikely). CC APD Chiefs and SRT command staff.

OCD/ARIC GROUP TEST MSG.

4rr

Got it... It would be best to have bike patrol follow closely rather than at a distance.

Roger that.

Excellent.

There were 4 last night also + three A/C's. Going to ARCH. Sorry for the duplication

OA update:

Rumors are spreading that riot police are gearing up in CH garage. Live stream is reporting officers are "staging". Nothing actually seen. GA is about to wrap up to start the silent march to Arch. Attitude of crowd is calm /non-violent for the most part. Does NOT appear they are going to attempt to occupy the stairs at CH at 22:00hrs. They are concerned that the local media will show a blank screen. For what that is worth. Got it. Thanks. Live stream is off Plan is to keep them off the streets from blocking traffic. They will shut the roads at 11pm No plans to make any arrests at this point. FYI the guy talking to Morlog is familiar w the person who posted the officers info on the Internet. FYI only. Understood. Bring me a slice please. Roger that. SRT is letting all but 4 squads go 42. Two will stay at CH and two at DTAC monitoring the groups. DOC will be closing shortly and no plans for opening tomorrow currently exist. ARIC will be 42 at 23:00hrs. Any updates can go directly to Det Swann or me or through Yahoo email tomorrow. GREAT job everyone. Excellent job. GN. ARIC OA UPDATE. As of 14:00hrs there has been little mentioned regarding events planned for today. There was one posting asking for ppl to attend the PSC today but that has yet to generate much traction. The next event will be the GA tonight at 19:00 hrs where more planning will be discussed. We have also heard ab Occupy Council Chambers on Thursday and will work toward crowd size estimates as we lead up to that event. Sent to Apd executive staff, SRT command and AO ARIC/OCD assigned personnel Have to check. Do u know where the occupiers are to pick up their property?

Eric Stocktons office is located at 411 Chicon. Not Rutherford campus. I am still awaiting to hear in where the property is located. Ok., Thanks. Hopefully not at rutherford Doubtful as that would be pretty far to transport it.

The property IS located at Rutherford campus near the loading doc behind recruiting. They call 974-9060 to set up an appointment w security at bld 1. They will then be escorted to the container to pick through the items. In 30 days it is going to be disposed of. I'm in the office please Call when possible 4-6842 Kerry did you get a call from anyone at CBP OIIL NAMED Juan Quintello regarding a human smuggling operation from the border.

All,

I wanted to take a moment to share with you the great sense of pride I have experienced during the past nine days watching team APD in its efforts to ensure the safety of our community as people exercise their First Amendment Right to Free Speech and the right to peaceful assembly.

The collective efforts of our sworn-staff, from patrol, HEC, SRT, Intel, ARIC, RTCC, HEC, Air-Ops, SWAT, Special Operations, and our leadership cadre, as well as the efforts of our civilian support staff, have been outstanding. You are all conducting yourselves in a manner consistent with the best traditions of the Austin Police Department.

Although we have no indication on when the Occupy movement will end in Austin or other cities throughout the United States, I am certain of one thing, and that is of our commitment to continue to police in a constitutionally sound manner. We all may be witnessing a moment of time in our Nation's history that may end up having historical significance, I am certain that thanks to all of you, we will be remembered as a department that did everything within its collective power to "Defend the First" and secure the peace.

On behalf of the APD leadership team, thank you all for your excellence. I know that the Mayor and Council, our City Manager, and the people we serve join me in thanking you all for a job well done to date.

As always, please be safe and do not hesitate to call upon me or a member of your leadership team if we can be of assistance.

With Great Admiration,

Indigenous People's Day March (Committee Notes)

Convene at 4:30 to leave at 5. Return by 7 for the G.A.

- Keep a safe space in mind for folks with disabilities and people with children. Using balloons to identify where children and vulnerable people are.
- Certain people will be traffic control ie stop traffic ahead of time to make sure people can stay together --- tied into passing stuff out, flyers, zip files
- Route:
- Go east on Cesar Chavez to Congress (we will be on west side of Congress). Go north on Congress, stopping at Chase Bank (600 Congress Ave), ending up on capitol. Once at the capitol, a contingency group will scout out if anything is going on at the capitol which could provide opportunity for media coverage, dialogue, or disruption. Turn around and head back on the east side of Congress avenue, stopping at Bank of America (515 Congress Ave), returning via 2nd street to confront shoppers and diners.
- Bank Stops:
- JP Morgan Chase on the way (600 Congress Ave -- west side of street) where someone will make a short statement on JP Morgan Chase's $4.7 million donation to the NYPD in response to Occupy Wall Street.
- Bank of America on the way back (515 Congress Avenue) where someone will make a short statement about how cuts to social programs hurt already-marginalized communities (people of color, queer and trans folks, women) first and worst
- The group as a whole will respect the diversity of tactics of its individuals as long as they remain nonviolent to people (not property). There will be no internal 'movement police' to jump on individuals or hand them over to the authorities. The group as a whole will not support, join in, or send any message regarding any individual tactic, but allow for any variety of tactics under the mantle of nonviolent civil disobedience.

OA GA - Sat Dec 3, 2011 @ 4pm

- * Dec 11th - There will be a teach-in on the south lawn of the Capital at 3pm. Topic is "political pranksterism", in which they will discuss successful political pranks and propose any that may further the movement.
- * Dec 12th - AISD is supposed to have a vote on converting an east side elementary school to a charter school. There appears to be considerable opposition to the privatization of this school. There is some discussion as to camping out the night before and demonstrating the day of, perhaps at an AISD facility.
- * Dec 12th - Nationwide Occupy "Port Day". Occupy Denver has called out to landlocked Occupy movements to block Wal Mart Distribution centers. Occupies in port cities are said to make a concerted effort to block ports. "Duffy" called for what amounts to a working group meeting at 7pm at Hideout Coffee House on Congress on Dec 4.
- * Jan 17th - An announcement was that there's a plan for Occupy movements across the nation to plan a "big action" on this, the four month anniversary of Occupy Wall Street. OA members seem to be excited that they will have sufficient time to adequately plan an action.

Dec 12 "Port Day" Action

- * 8-10 people in attendance at Hideout coffee at 7p
- * Many ideas discussed, but appears that planned action will be use of "human lockboxes" (i.e. dragon sleeves), and possibly tents chained together.
- * Idea is to disrupt the flow of commercial trucks in/out of Wal Mart distribution center in New Braunfels
- * Will ask GA for money for supplies
- * Asking for additional action, in waves, by OSA, OSM and OTS
- * May rent a Uhaul in New Braunfels to facilitate the action
- * Tentative plan is to meet at 10am on Monday morning at the shopping center south of the WM distribution center
- * Some folks are going to scout the area on Tuesday during the day
- * There will be a Wed night meeting at 22:30 at Spider House

* Likely a rehearsal on Sunday before the action

* Group is cognizant of the overall reputation of OA, and seems readily opposed to anything that could be considered vandalism. This sub-group appears systematically opposed to violence against individuals. Further they're fearful of retaliation by truck drivers

* Ladder proposal

* physical barrier proposal

* Group is not interested in disrupting the administrative offices or their traffic flow. They are very reluctant to get very far on the property, but are concerned that the frontage road may be "federal" property

Gonzo,

There are two distribution centers in Central Texas. One is in New Braunfels the other is in Temple. Both are about an hour from downtown. Given the current minimal strength of the OA movement, I doubt this will turn out to be much of a deal, but it is still important enough for our regional LE partners to have the details in order to plan accordingly. Would it be possible to have someone available to sit in on this meeting and report back to Calvin or Det. Swann?

I also learned today that the live stream from OA is down due to computer issues so we are going to need as much info from the officers on the ground as possible to collect on the issued information needs.

I will be out Monday and Tuesday, but Tom will be Acting Lt in my absence. I can be reached by phone or email if needed.

Thank you.

This was posted Saturday just after 7pm on the Occupy Forums by John Duffy (aka BarneyRebel):

We are going to discuss and plan a blockade of a Wal-Mart distribution center in solidarity with Occupy Denver's call to do so, which is in conjunction with the west coast port blockades on 12-12. If you are interested in assisting with this action, meet us at 7pm Sunday, Dec. 4th, at the Hideout Coffee house on South Congress, just a couple of blocks south of the Capitol Building.

I don't know if we could get someone to attend that meeting or not, but it certainly appears to be something we should follow up on.

 Note - This E-mail contains protected criminal intelligence information **

Gentlemen,

Our UC's just checked in and advised the following.

A group of OA intends to support the call to action by OA Denver for a port blockade on December 12 by blockading the Wal-Mart distribution center in New Braunsfels, Tx. They are planning to deploy around 11 am on Monday, December 12.

The "working group" was about 8-10 individuals. They are currently in the planning phase, but the general consensus is that they are willing to be arrested. One said that she has 10 others who would be willing to be arrested.

They intend to use "lock-boxes" (Dragon-Sleeves) to create a human chain across the truck entrance of the distribution facility. They are looking for design schematics on how to easily build these devices. We have an opportunity for one of our UC's to provide designs that are easier for a cut-team to defeat, if this is permissible.

There is talk of renting a Uhaul that they can all load up in for rapid deployment on arrival, however it is unlikely that any of this group would sign for and be responsible for the rental.

There are a couple of individuals that will be driving to the facility for reconnaissance to determine gate / driveway size, etc.

They have discussed a rehearsal on Dec 11th to work out how to rapidly deploy with the lock-box devices.

They are hoping that Occupy San Antonio, Occupy UT, and other groups will also come, but there are no solid plans in the works made with them as of yet.

 There was discussion of using tactics that would damage property, such as dumping screws in the driveway, or chaining trailers to poles, however the group consensus was that they did not want to cause property damage. They only want to disrupt the distribution facility and create a scene. They would like to have a line of trucks backed up on the freeway for a show. They do not plan to blockade the administrative entrance.

There is a follow-up OA meeting at 7 pm tomorrow and we will have coverage.

Tomorrow I will have Ofc Zacchius identify plans for the easiest to defeat lockboxes and provide those to our UC. Are there any issues with us providing plans found on the internet?

Thanks,
Tom

I found this on the Houston Chronicle website. Apparently, the people that were arrested at the Port Action Day, and that had used "dragon sleeve" type devices, were taken to tents that were set up. The public was not allowed to see how the arrested protesters were cut out of these devices.

I did find a picture of Duffy being arrested (In all black). It is posted on the Occupy Austin Facebook page. I also recognized a guy by the name of Kyle who was photographed by the Houston Chronicle. I had actually spoken to Kyle at the Spider House meeting. He did not want to go to Harris County jail, so I don't think he had originally planned on getting arrested.

Here is the website, and I will attach the photos to this email.

He was at spider house. He left his backpack there that night, and his laptop was stolen. I walked out of spider house talking to him. He really did not want to get arrested in Houston.

Subject: Fri night

Tonight's activities were light-hearted and designed for fun. They had birthday cake, an award ceremony (sorry, we didn't win any), a parody skit and a highlight video. The march went as planned with a few hiccups because of the directionally challenged. The first stop was Republic park. After not getting the anticipated response from officers, they elected to move on to Woolridge Park.

On the way to Woolridge, the Twitter magnet informed the group that officers were heard on a "scanner" and knew we were going to the park. We only stayed at Woolridge for a few minutes before the group abandoned the "park tour" plan and decided to go to the Capital (that change of plans was without discussion or we'd probably still be there deciding if we'd like to change the plan). On the way to the Capital we were given a similar update by the twitter magnet about officers meeting us at that destination. I notified Sgt Hawkins of this development and officers apparently adjusted their radio traffic. We were unable to determine exactly what traffic was being monitored, or how.

The group moved to 6th street where several stops were made so they could dance in the streets. One of the occupiers transported a PA system, powered by a generator, along the route in his pedi-cab. The music from this system was loud enough that it actually thwarted many attempts to organize a direction for the march or transmit any situational updates to the group as a whole. From 6th street we moved to Palm Park.

Everyone relaxed and/or danced at Palm. Late in the game they conducted a pseudo-GA to discuss expanding the occupation to Palm. Many wanted to camp for the night, and no other agreements were reached. A contingent elected to camp in Palm tonight and decided that, if officers showed up, they would pack up and march to another park and repeat the process. We updated Sgt Hawkins with this information.

Tomorrow night's march will be co-opting a non-OA march only referred to as a decentralized dance march. OA hopes to steer it back to City Hall, and they anticipate the numbers at 1,000. This event is on Facebook, but it is unknown what group is hosting it or how to look the event up. GA has been moved to City Hall for Sat night and the location of the march will be disclosed at that time.

It should be noted that Marc Ott observed a portion of the events this evening. Also in attendance was City Councilwoman Tovo.

Thanks,

d

Subject: Re: Occupy Party Update

Lt's,

We attended the Occupy UT meeting tonight (Boomer Sooner). The group is peaceful and intellectual. They are upset with recent tuition increases, and higher education issues. They are in conversation about the merits of "accepting" the university's stipulations for protesting, which does not seem to sit well the group. They do plan to march as a part of the MLK parade beginning on the 16th at 9am. They may break off to the park near Carver library (Kealing?) toward the end of the parade for teach-ins and guest speakers to include Robert King of the Angola 3.

There is a "party" scheduled for tonight to celebrate the 3-month anniversary of the OA movement. Indications are that they will set up tents, and when encountered by police, collect those tents and move to other locations and repeat the process. The purpose is to "tire" officers and ultimately end up back at city hall with the tents for an expanded occupation. Many people are discussing staying overnight in addition to the 24/7ers. Arrests and civil disobedient are likely.

OA folks are keenly aware of the "bonfire" incident and strongly denounce the action as being conducted by a person not involved in the movement. They plan on issuing a press release tomorrow on the matter. Additionally, they've discussed that the "bonfire" is a result of officers not being attentive to duty, and suggested making it an issue with the city and the dept. The movement expects eviction in the next 24-48 hours and are trying desperately to concoct a back up plan, including occupying parks and other locations. They do believe, however, that they will be successful in the federal lawsuit heard recently here in Austin.

The movement is planning to co-opt a march of 1,000 people on Saturday, however that information is hush-hush at this time. More to follow as updates become apparent (no zombies yet)

Tonight's ga was particularly contentious given the totality of the circumstance.

Thanks,
d...

Gonzo,

There are two distribution centers in Central Texas. One is in New Braunfels the other is in Temple. Both are about an hour from downtown. Given the current minimal strength of the OA movement, I doubt this will turn out to be much of a deal, but it is still important enough for our regional LE partners to have the details in order to plan accordingly. Would it be possible to have someone available to sit in on this meeting and report back to Calvin or Det. Swann?

I also learned today that the live stream from OA is down due to computer issues so we are going to need as much info from the officers on the ground as possible to collect on the issued information needs.

I will be out Monday and Tuesday, but Tom will be Acting Lt in my absence. I can be reached by phone or email if needed.

Thank you.

Mark Spangler

This was posted Saturday just after 7pm on the Occupy Forums by John Duffy (aka BarneyRebel):

We are going to discuss and plan a blockade of a Wal-Mart distribution center in solidarity with Occupy Denver's call to do so, which is in conjunction with the west coast port blockades on 12-12. If you are interested in assisting with this action, meet us at 7pm Sunday, Dec. 4th, at the Hideout Coffee house on South Congress, just a couple of blocks south of the Capitol Building:

I don't know if we could get someone to attend that meeting or not, but it certainly appears to be something we should follow up on.

Dear Sirs,

Shannon and I will be attending this meeting. It was briefly mentioned by "Duffy" in the GA at the capital last night. They mentioned doing it at the "San Marcos" center, which I believe is actually in New Braunfels.

Take care,

Deek

 Note - This E-mail contains protected criminal intelligence information **

Gentlemen,

Our UC's just checked in and advised the following.

A group of OA intends to support the call to action by OA Denver for a port blockade on December 12 by blockading the Wal-Mart distribution center in New Braunsfels, TX. They are planning to deploy around 11 am on Monday, December 12.

The "working group" was about 8-10 individuals. They are currently in the planning phase, but the general consensus is that they are willing to be arrested. One said that she has 10 others who would be willing to be arrested.

They intend to use "lock-boxes" (Dragon-Sleeves) to create a human chain across the truck entrance of the distribution facility. They are looking for design schematics on how to easily build these devices. We have an opportunity for one of our UC's to provide designs that are easier for a cut-team to defeat, if this is permissible.

There is talk of renting a Uhaul that they can all load up in for rapid deployment on arrival, however it is unlikely that any of this group would sign for and be responsible for the rental.

There are a couple of individuals that will be driving to the facility for reconnaissance to determine gate / driveway size, etc.

They have discussed a rehearsal on Dec 11th to work out how to rapidly deploy with the lock-box devices.

They are hoping that Occupy San Antonio, Occupy UT, and other groups will also come, but there are no solid plans in the works made with them as of yet.

 There was discussion of using tactics that would damage property, such as dumping screws in the driveway, or chaining trailers to poles, however the group consensus was that they did not want to cause property damage. They only want to disrupt the distribution facility and create a scene. They would like to have a line of trucks backed up on the freeway for a show. They do not plan to blockade the administrative entrance.

There is a follow-up OA meeting at 7 pm tomorrow and we will have coverage.

Tomorrow I will have Ofc Zacchius identify plans for the easiest to defeat lockboxes and provide those to our UC. Are there any issues with us providing plans found on the internet?

Thanks,
Tom
