On Friday, 1/11/08, activists across the country will be participating in the "International Day of Action to Shut Down Guantanamo" & "Witness Against Torture", an offshoot group of United for Peace and Justice (UPJ), is organizing demonstrations in several major cities, including Boston. Activists who are participating in the Boston demonstration will meet at 211 Tremont St. (211 City Stage Co.) @ 11:30 AM. Activists will then march to the JFK Building @ 12:30 PM for a rally.

Local activists have been holding weekly rallies against the detention camp at Guantanamo for the past year that have been drawing a small number of activists (10-20). The January 11th event should draw a larger crowd because it is part of a national day of action. UPJ has been sending out bulletins on its e-mail list to advertise the day of action.
